

WEB HOSTING

Web hosting is a service that allows users to post webpages to the internet. A web host is a business that provides the technologies needed for websites to be viewed on the web. Some major web hosts are GoDaddy, HostGator, bluehost,etc. There are five kinds of web hosting such as shared, managed, dedicated, colocation, and cloud hosting. Shared is the most basic and cheapest. Managed is where the provider owns the data center, network, server and devices. Dedicated is more flexible than shared since the customer has control over hosting environment and operating system. In colocation hosting the provider offer space for devices on a rack with low performance bandwidth. Cloud hosting allows computing resources to be consumed as a service on the internet.

CONGRATULATIONS! You have completed this course.

Evolution of a Solution Week 01 Quiz

Course Title

SANDRA LEE

Name

12/17

Final Score

9/12/2016 6:14PM

Date